ONTIME ESTABLISHES ITSELF IN THE PUERTO SECO DE ANTEQUERA LOGISTICS PARK ALONGSIDE GROUPE IDEC

Official announcement of the partnership between Ontime and IDEC GROUP IBERICA:
Carlos Moreno (CEO of Ontime), Patrice Lafargue (President of GROUPE IDEC), and Rafael De
Andrés (CEO of Dunas Capital)

On June 10, 2025, in Madrid, IDEC GROUP IBERICA, the Spanish subsidiary of GROUPE IDEC, officially entered into a strategic partnership with Ontime, Spain's leading integrated logistics company. This alliance confirms Ontime's establishment in the Puerto Seco de Antequera logistics park in Andalusia and marks a key milestone in the development of this major European logistics project.

A First Strategic Location for Ontime

By becoming the first company to confirm its presence in the Puerto Seco de Antequera, Ontime demonstrates its confidence in this next-generation logistics platform.

The company plans to develop a 36,000 m² tri-temperature facility on a 63,000 m² plot, including over 20,000 m² of temperature-controlled space (both positive and negative cold storage). This facility will position Ontime as a key player in cold chain logistics in Andalusia.

This strategic decision reflects Ontime's desire to operate a comprehensive, multimodal, and decarbonized logistics hub that meets today's industry demands. The site's exceptional connectivity—by road, rail, sea, and air—was a decisive factor in the company's choice

Puerto Seco de Antequera: A Future-Oriented Hub

Located at a major logistics crossroads in southern Europe, Puerto Seco de Antequera spans over 330 hectares. It is one of the most ambitious multimodal hubs in Southern Europe, offering direct access to both Mediterranean and Atlantic rail corridors as well as Spain's primary highway network.

The project is part of a sustainable and innovative development vision, supported by a public-private partnership initiated in 2009 and integrated into the Andalusian Logistics Network (Red Logística de Andalucía). It provides an optimal environment for companies seeking high-performance logistics, energy efficiency, and operational resilience.

Through this first project on the Iberian Peninsula, GROUPE IDEC reaffirms its commitment to investing in regions with strong strategic potential for the future of European logistics.

A Shared Vision of Decarbonization and Green Energy

The partnership between Ontime and IDEC GROUP IBERICA is built on shared values: innovation, responsibility, and sustainability. Both entities are committed to promoting low-carbon logistics through high energy-efficiency infrastructures and green energy production solutions—particularly for powering cold storage facilities.

A Joint Ambition for the Region

This project is supported by the City of Antequera, represented by its Mayor Manuel Jesús Barón Ríos, and by the Andalusian Public Ports Agency (APPA), a body under the regional government. It fully aligns with the regional development strategy of the province of Malaga.

As reiterated by Malaga's Mayor, Francisco de la Torre, the logistics and industrial sectors—the economic drivers of the region—require suitable land reserves. Puerto Seco de Antequera directly addresses this need by offering a natural extension to the metropolitan area's capacities.

Two major players, Ontime and GROUPE IDEC, are thus joining forces and expertise to position Antequera as the logistics and industrial gateway to Southern Europe.

Patrice Lafargue, President of GROUPE IDEC, states:

“This partnership reflects our shared vision for ambitious logistics development, based on innovation, sustainability, and regional integration. Puerto Seco de Antequera represents this new generation of projects we are driving—connected, responsible, and open to Europe. We are proud to support Ontime in this significant and forward-looking step.”

A First Milestone... With More to Come

Ontime's arrival marks the first of several planned developments currently under discussion. The year 2025 represents a decisive turning point for the expansion of Puerto Seco de Antequera, a model that is already attracting other companies seeking high-performance, sustainable logistics solutions at the European level.
